Wheal Table Light

Description

Wheal means 'a place of work'. Looking at the heritage of Cornish mining past, brass elements have been incorporated to offer a beautiful, reflective quality to the light emitted from the decorative bulb. The Wheal Table Light is a charmingly uncomplicated piece, made up of one protruding steam bent oak arm coming from a brass and oak base plate. The subtle curve in the stem helps to position the light at just the right height for illuminating specific spaces. Available with or without a decorative LED filament bulb.
